Built in 1946, the Metro Building was originally home to the Metro Pant Company, a manufacturer of men's and boy's trousers for JC Penny and Saks Fifth Avenue. This historic building, affectionately referred to as "Retro Metro", has 15 residential units. Four of those units have been recently renovated with modern touches, but the rest all hold true to their retro décor with original hardwood flooring. Conveniently located in downtown Harrisonburg, Metro is a mixed-use property, specializing in professional office space and luxury apartments.
